Course Description:

This course requires students to engage in an in-depth examination of key debates and issues in the field of mental health and their connection to society more broadly. Drawing upon various disciplines including history, sociology, geography, and anthropology, the course examines “mental health” broadly, taking into account the spectrum of experience from mental illness and disorder to notions of well-being, flourishing, and the good life. Major points of discussion include the broadening scientific and public interest in individual psychic life and how social structures of identity and experience, such as race, gender, and age, impact mental health.

Course Objectives:

Students are expected to develop a strong understanding of various factors that impact mental health (positively and negatively) at both the individual and societal level. They should come to grasp central discussions within the diverse professional disciplines (such as psychiatry, psychology, and social work) that concern themselves with mental health and wellbeing. Moreover, they should develop an appreciation for how other social actors (such as police services, urban planners, and educators) help to shape people’s mental health. By the completion of the course, students should be able to appreciate many of the nuances that characterize the primary debates about mental health in the modern world.

Grade breakdown:

Late assignments will be penalized at a rate of 4% per day.

1. Online Discussion: 8%
2. Class Policies Quiz: 2%
3. Essay: 32%
4. Midterm: 25%
5. Final Exam: 33%

Class Policies Quiz:

During lecture, students must complete a short multiple choice quiz about class policies. The quiz is based on the syllabus and what is discussed in the introductory lecture.

Essay:

Students are required to write a 5-6 page essay on one of the topics that will be assigned during class. Students must use a minimum of SIX peer reviewed sources. Papers should be cited in full using APA referencing style. All papers should include a title page with the question clearly stated, as well as a bibliography.

Optional Essay Extension:

Students may opt for a short essay extension, however, you will not receive any comments or feedback on your paper. Your grade will be posted on Avenue, but you will not receive the essay back. Neither the TAs nor the professor will meet with you to discuss your paper or your grade in any fashion – NO EXCEPTIONS.

Midterm and Final Exams:

Both the midterm and final exam will include (a) 10-15 multiple choice questions that cover both the readings and lecture material, and (b) written components that could include short answer or long answer essay questions. Students will have two hours to complete the midterm and final exam. Both the midterm and final are cumulative. Students will be expected to have studied material from the whole of the course.

Online Discussion:

Students will be divided up into groups and must participate in an online discussion hosted on Avenue to Learn. Students will be assigned FOUR different questions based on readings or online videos. Each student is expected to post a response consisting of roughly 200 words to each question. You may comment in reference to your fellow students' postings, or you may post your own thoughts. There is no need to use formal referencing, but if you are taking ideas or quotes from a source, we need to know where you got it.

Other Crucial Course Notes

1. Do not email the course instructor or TAs via Avenue to Learn. Direct all communication to our McMaster email addresses from your McMaster address.
2. Students making use of MSAFs will have to complete all assignments at a later date. In other words, there is no chance that the grade for missed assignments or tests will be tacked onto the final exam.
3. There will be absolutely no leniency on plagiarism. Don't copy and paste anything directly into your essay...even if you cite it!

Faculty of Social Sciences E-mail Communication Policy:

Effective September 1, 2010, it is the policy of the Faculty of Social Sciences that all e-mail communication sent from students to instructors (including TAs), and from students to staff, must originate from the student's own McMaster University e-mail account. This policy protects confidentiality and confirms the identity of the student. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that communication is sent to the university from a McMaster account. If an instructor becomes aware that a communication has come from an alternate address, the instructor may not reply at his or her discretion.

Academic Integrity

You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behaviour in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity.

Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behaviour can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: "Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty"), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university.

It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty. For information on the various types of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, located at <http://www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity>

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

1. Plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one's own or for which other credit has been obtained.
2. Improper collaboration in group work.
3. Copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

The instructor and university reserve the right to modify elements of the course during the term. The university may change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances. If either type of modification becomes necessary, reasonable notice and communication with the students will be given with explanation and the opportunity to comment on changes. It is the responsibility of the student to check their McMaster email and course websites weekly during the term and to note any changes.
