

HLTH AGE 2G03: Mental Health
Fall 2016

Instructor: Dr. Mat Savelli
E-mail: savellm@mcmaster.ca

Office: Kenneth Taylor Hall Rm 230
Office Hours: Wed 3:30-6pm

Course Description: This course requires students to engage in an in-depth examination of key debates and issues in the field of mental health. Drawing upon various disciplines including history, sociology, geography, and anthropology, the course examines “mental health” broadly, taking into account the spectrum of experience from mental illness and disorder to notions of well-being, flourishing, and the good life. Major points of discussion include the broadening scientific and public interest in individual psychic life and how structures of identity and experience – such as race, gender, and age – impact mental health.

Course Objectives: Students are expected to study the varied factors that impact mental health (positively and negatively) at both the individual and societal level. They should come to grasp central discussions within the diverse professional disciplines (such as psychiatry, psychology, and social work) that concern themselves with mental health and wellbeing. Moreover, they should develop an appreciation for how other social actors (such as police services, urban planners, and educators) help to shape people’s mental health. By the completion of the course, students should be able to appreciate many of the nuances that characterize the primary debates on mental health.

Required Texts: All readings are available on Avenue to Learn.

Grade breakdown:

Late assignments will be penalized at a rate of 5% per day.

Quizzes 2 x 10%

Essay: 25%

Midterm: 25%

Final: 30%

Quizzes: Students are required to complete two online quizzes during the course. Quizzes will consist primarily of multiple choice questions. Quizzes will be released on Avenue to Learn on Wednesday evening, and students will have until the following Monday at midnight to complete them. Quiz material will be drawn from lectures and the readings.

Essay: In FOUR double-spaced pages, students are meant to answer one of the following questions. To do so, they must use a minimum of FIVE peer-reviewed sources. Please be sure to use proper APA style formatting and include a bibliography.

- i) How successful has the consumer/survivor movement been in changing the status and protecting the rights of individuals diagnosed with mental illness?
- ii) Why are women disproportionately diagnosed with many mental disorders? Be sure to (very) briefly outline some of the disorders where women outnumber men.
- iii) To what extent did psychoanalysis represent a “break” or “pause” in the evolution of modern psychiatry?
- iv) Was the “moral treatment” movement more beneficial for psychiatric patients or practitioners?
- v) Should psychiatrists have a monopoly on the treatment of mental illness?

- vi) How beneficial are stories about celebrities “coming out” about their mental illness experiences?
- vii) Can societies collectively suffer from mental illness, such as mass psychosis?

Midterm and Final Exams: Both the midterm and final exam will combine multiple choice with a written, long answer component. Material will be drawn from both the readings and lectures. All tests (including the quizzes, midterm, and final) are cumulative.

Other Crucial Course Notes

- 1) Do not email the course instructor or TAs via Avenue to Learn. Direct all communication to our McMaster email addresses.
- 2) Students making use of MSAF’s will have to complete all assignments at a later date. In other words, there is no chance that the grade for missed assignments or tests will be tacked onto the final exam.
- 3) Late assignments will be penalized 5% per day.
- 4) There will be absolutely no leniency on plagiarism. Don’t copy and paste anything directly into your essay...even if you cite it!

*Forwarding will take effect 24-hours after students complete the process at the above link

Academic Integrity

You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behaviour in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity.

Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behaviour can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: "Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty"), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university.

It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty. For information on the various types of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, located at <http://www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity>

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

1. Plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one's own or for which other credit has been obtained.
2. Improper collaboration in group work.
3. Copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

The instructor and university reserve the right to modify elements of the course during the term. The university may change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances. If either type of modification becomes necessary, reasonable notice and communication with the students will be given with explanation and the opportunity to comment on changes. It is the responsibility of the student to check their McMaster email and course websites weekly during the term and to note any changes.
