Course Description

This course provides an overview of key historical dynamics and contemporary institutions, actors, theoretical concepts and debates about globalization. Lectures, readings, and writing assignments draws on political economy theories of capitalism, feminist theories of patriarchy and Indigenous/decolonial/postcolonial theories of colonialism with an emphasis on the historical context of how world orders are established and contested through international institutions and transnational networks.

Course Objectives

By the end of the course students should be able to:

- Understand the international politics of neoliberalism, colonialism, and patriarchy that shape contemporary globalization
- Understand the historical emergence and current functions of key institutions and actors
- Analyze trends in global governance of topics such as global political economy, global development, and governance of digital infrastructure and the internet
- Evaluate the effectiveness of mechanisms and strategies of international state leaders and transnational non-state leaders taking action to address political priorities such as gender-based violence, global development, migration, and food politics
- Apply critical theories analyzing global power hierarchies to make informed arguments about potential future trends in globalization and world orders such as distributions of wealth and labour conditions, resource extraction and energy politics, and war and militarization

Required Materials and Texts

There is no textbook to purchase for this course. Links to all of the readings (e-journal articles, e-book chapters, etc.) are provided on the Avenue to Learn website.

Class Format

Course Delivery:

The weekly lectures with the Course Instructor will take place in person at the classroom on campus beginning Monday January 9 at 11:30am. The accompanying weekly lecture power point presentation documents will be posted on Avenue to Learn.

Avenue to Learn:

Students are responsible for checking the course website regularly throughout the term as it will host:

- Announcements and updates from the course director
- Power point presentations
- Links to the assigned readings

- Links to upload your writing assignments

Email and Office Hours:

If you have a question about the course, your first step should be to read through the syllabus document and course announcements posted on Avenue to Learn. If you want to ask a question about assignment requirements, course material, academic accommodations or another matter, send me an email with the subject line “3LB3 Globalization and the World Order”. Your question will receive an email response or if needed an appointment for office hours will be set up. Please note that emails will be answered during regular office hours on weekdays and emails sent 24 hours or less before an assignment deadline may not be answered before the assignment deadline.

Course Evaluation – Overview

Assignment	Due Date	Percentage of Final Grade
Short Paper	Monday February 13 at 11:30am	25%
Research Paper	Monday March 27 at 11:30am	35%
Final Exam	Written during the scheduled exam period	40%

Course Evaluation – Details

NOTE: All assignments should include a separate cover page with your name, student number, and assignment title as well as a separate page at the end for your bibliography. Both assignments should be double-spaced and in 12-point font. You can work with MLA, APA, or Chicago Manual of Style citation method. Whichever style you use it is essential to be consistent with that method throughout your paper, to include page number and author name information for all direct quotes and paraphrased ideas from sources, and to include a bibliography/works cited.

Short Paper due Monday February 13 at 11:30am (25%)

Select one of the following assigned readings:

- Geeta Chowdhry and Sheila Nair from Week 1
- Makere Stewart-Harawira from Week 2
- Nancy Fraser from Week 3

You will write a paper about one of those assigned readings and it will be evaluated based on how you respond to the following three questions:

- 1) what is the author’s argument?

- 2) how does the author support their argument? (what theoretical concepts, historical events, etc. do they draw on) and
- 3) why does this matter for understanding globalization and the world order?

No research of any additional academic resources is required for this assignment. The essay will be 1250 words.

Research Paper due Monday March 27 at 11:30am (35%)

An assignment sheet with full details on the assignment questions will be posted on the Avenue to Learn website on Monday February 13. Students will select one of the questions as outlined on the assignment handout which will be about the topics discussed in the second half of the course on the topic of: 1) war and imperialism, 2) global development, 3) governance of global migration, or 4) food security and food sovereignty. The research paper assignment requires students to apply their knowledge of course material to independent research. This requires demonstrating an understanding of theories and case studies in course readings and lectures and also independently researching academic sources on the essay topic. The final paper will include a clear thesis statement in the introduction that demonstrates your argument and analysis of the topic. The paper will be 2000 words. In addition, your assignment will include a separate cover page listing your name and student number and a separate page at the end listing your bibliography.

Final Exam. Date to be scheduled during the exam period (40%)

The final exam will include two sections: short answers and essay responses. On Monday April 10 a study guide outlining all possible questions will be posted on Avenue to Learn and will be discussed at class. For the first section you will be required to identify the source of the short terms (which reading or lecture it appeared in), define the concepts, and discuss their significance for understanding globalization and the world order. For the second section you will be provided with a list of potential essay questions and for the exam you will write one essay response. The study guide will include the full list of possible short terms that will appear on the final exam, a shorter list will appear on the exam itself, and you will have choice in selecting which short terms to write about. The study guide will include the list of possible essay questions, a shorter list will appear on the exam and you will have choice in selecting which essay question you will respond to.

Course Policies

Email and Office Hours

If you have a question about the course, your first step should be to read through the syllabus document and course announcements posted on Avenue to Learn. If you have a question about course material (lectures, readings, etc.) or assignment requirements you should ask at the weekly lecture, so that your classmates can benefit from hearing this and you will benefit from hearing their questions. If you have a question about your Letter of Accommodation or another matter, email the course director with the email subject line “3LB3 Globalization and the World Order”. Your question will receive an email response or if needed an appointment for office hours will be set up. Please note that emails will be answered during regular office hours on weekdays and emails sent 24 hours before an assignment deadline may not be answered in time.

Faculty of Social Sciences E-mail Communication Policy

Effective September 1, 2010, it is the policy of the Faculty of Social Sciences that all e-mail communication sent from students to instructors (including TAs), and from students to staff, must originate from the student’s own McMaster University e-mail account. This policy protects confidentiality and confirms the identity of the student. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that communication is sent to the university from a McMaster account. If an instructor becomes aware that a communication has come from an alternate address, the instructor may not reply at his or her discretion.

Expected Time Commitments

This university class is based on the model of 3 hours of class/tutorial time per week, plus 3-6 hours of unscheduled study and review work per week. In our online learning environment, the 3 hours of class/tutorial time will consist of asynchronous recorded video lectures. Further, students should budget approximately 6-9 hours per week for keeping up with course content, allowing for modest peaks during assignment and midterm season. If you find yourself unable to work on this course for a period of a full week or more, please contact the instructor and/or your academic advisor.

Conduct Expectations

As a McMaster student, you have the right to experience, and the responsibility to demonstrate, respectful and dignified interactions within all of our living, learning and working communities. These expectations are described in the Code of Student Rights & Responsibilities (the “Code”). All students share the responsibility of maintaining a positive environment for the academic and personal growth of all McMaster community members, whether in person or online.

It is essential that students be mindful of their interactions online, as the Code remains in effect in virtual learning environments. The Code applies to any interactions that adversely affect, disrupt, or interfere with reasonable participation in University activities. Student disruptions or behaviours that interfere with university functions on online platforms (e.g. use of Avenue 2 Learn, WebEx or Zoom for delivery), will be taken very seriously and will be investigated. Outcomes may include restriction or removal of the involved students' access to these platforms

Academic Integrity Statement

You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behaviour in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity. It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty.

Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behaviour can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: "Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty"), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university. For information on the various types of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, located at <https://secretariat.mcmaster.ca/university-policies-procedures-guidelines/>

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

- plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one's own or for which other credit has been obtained.
- improper collaboration in group work.
- copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

Copyright and Recording

Students are advised that lectures, demonstrations, performances, and any other course material provided by an instructor include copyright protected works. The Copyright Act and copyright law protect every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work, including lectures by University instructors

The recording of lectures, tutorials, or other methods of instruction may occur during a course. Recording may be done by either the instructor for the purpose of authorized distribution, or by a student for the purpose of personal study. Students should be aware that their voice and/or image may be recorded by others during the class. Please speak with the instructor if this is a concern for you.

Courses With An On-Line Element

Some courses may use on-line elements (e.g. e-mail, Avenue to Learn (A2L), LearnLink, web pages, capa, Moodle, ThinkingCap, etc.). Students should be aware that, when they access the electronic components of a course using these elements, private information such as first and last names, user names for the McMaster e-mail accounts, and program affiliation may become apparent to all other students in the same course. The available information is dependent on the technology used.

Continuation in a course that uses on-line elements will be deemed consent to this disclosure. If you have any questions or concerns about such disclosure please discuss this with the course instructor.

Online Proctoring

Some courses may use online proctoring software for tests and exams. This software may require students to turn on their video camera, present identification, monitor and record their computer activities, and/or lock/restrict their browser or other applications/software during tests or exams. This software may be required to be installed before the test/exam begins.

Submission of Assignments

Assignments are to be submitted on the Avenue to Learn course website Turnitin applications. Assignments that are emailed to the instructor will not be accepted.

Turnitin.com

In this course we will be using a web-based service (Turnitin.com) to reveal authenticity and ownership of student submitted work. Students will be expected to submit their work electronically either directly to Turnitin.com or via Avenue to Learn (A2L) plagiarism detection (a service supported by Turnitin.com) so it can be checked for academic dishonesty. Students who do not wish to submit their work through A2L and/or Turnitin.com must notify the course instructor at least two weeks before the deadline to make arrangements for how the assignment will be submitted electronically. No penalty will be assigned to a student who does not submit work to Turnitin.com or A2L. All submitted work is subject to normal verification that standards of academic integrity have been upheld (e.g., on-line search, other software, etc.). For more information, please refer to the Turnitin.com Policy.

Authenticity / Plagiarism Detection

Some courses may use a web-based service (Turnitin.com) to reveal authenticity and ownership of student submitted work. For courses using such software, students will be expected to submit their work electronically either directly to Turnitin.com or via an online learning platform (e.g. A2L, etc.) using plagiarism detection (a service supported by Turnitin.com) so it can be checked for academic dishonesty.

Students who do not wish their work to be submitted through the plagiarism detection software must inform the Instructor before the assignment is due. No penalty will be assigned to a student who does not submit work to the plagiarism detection software.

All submitted work is subject to normal verification that standards of academic integrity have been upheld (e.g., on-line search, other software, etc.). For more details about McMaster's use of Turnitin.com please go to www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity.

Grades

All assignment grades and final grades are unofficial until the final course grades are released by the Office of the Registrar.

Grades will be based on the McMaster University grading scale:

MARK	GRADE
90-100	A+
85-90	A
80-84	A-
77-79	B+
73-76	B
70-72	B-
67-69	C+
63-66	C
60-62	C-
57-59	D+
53-56	D
50-52	D-
0-49	F

Late Assignments

Assignments are due at the dates and times outlined in this document. The penalty for late assignment submission is 3% per day including weekend days. No written assignments will be accepted ten days after the deadline, except in cases of accommodation.

Absences, Missed Work, Illness

In the event of an absence or missed work for medical or other reasons students should review and follow the Academic Regulation in the Undergraduate Calendar “Requests for Relief for Missed Academic Term Work”. There are two aspects to the McMaster Student Absence Form (MSAF) process to request an extension on coursework. If circumstances allow for it then the MSAF self-reporting tool on Mosaic should be used (for example if the assignment is worth less than 25% and submission of the MSAF is within 3 days of the assignment due date). Otherwise, if the circumstances meet the MSAF Exception Checklist (for example if the assignment is worth 25% or more of the final grade, etc.) then students need to contact their faculty office to provide the documentation to support their request for relief for missed work. After the MSAF is submitted then email to course instructor to request consideration for an extension on the assignment deadline. <https://socialsciences.mcmaster.ca/current-students/absence-form>

Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities who require academic accommodation must contact Student Accessibility Services (SAS) at 905-525-9140 ext. 28652 or sas@mcmaster.ca to make arrangements with a Program Coordinator. For further information, consult McMaster University's Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities policy.

Academic Accommodation for Religious, Indigenous or Spiritual Observances (RISO)

Students requiring academic accommodation based on religious, indigenous or spiritual observances should follow the procedures set out in the RISO policy. Students should submit their request to their Faculty Office normally within 10 working days of the beginning of term in which they anticipate a need for accommodation or to the Registrar's Office prior to their examinations. Students should also contact their instructors as soon as possible to make alternative arrangements for classes, assignments, and tests.

Course Modification

The instructor and university reserve the right to modify elements of the course during the term. The university may change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances. If either type of modification becomes necessary, reasonable notice and communication with the students will be given with explanation and the opportunity to comment on changes. It is the responsibility of the student to check his/her McMaster email and course websites weekly during the term and to note any changes.

Extreme Circumstances

The University reserves the right to change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances (e.g., severe weather, labour disruptions, etc.). Changes will be communicated through regular McMaster communication channels, such as McMaster Daily News, A2L and/or McMaster email.
