COURSE OVERVIEW

Through consideration of examples as diverse as Indonesian mummies, Tibetan corpse exposure, dark tourism, and North American death-care practices, students will discover how relationships to death and to the dead are formed by culture, politics, history and religion. In the first half of the course, students will situate death rituals and bereavement practices from around the world within their historical, religious, and cultural environments.

The second half of the course will examine themes from a more ethical and political lens. We will discuss the varied relationships to dead bodies, gendered and racial experiences, and the moral and ethical ambiguities of dark tourism. Students will also consider how familiar “Western” practices are shaped by culture, politics, history and religion, including how Indigenous, Black and Queer experiences fit into our rich mosaic of death, dying and bereavement. Throughout the course students will be tasked with reflecting on their own experiences and assumptions through the creation of a course blog.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

1. To provide students with an introductory survey of selected aspects of the cultural, historical, political and religious considerations of death, dying and bereavement.
2. To familiarize students with interdisciplinary perspectives around issues of death and dying within the fields of anthropology, religious studies, gender studies, geography, history, etc.
3. To cultivate analytical, reflective and critical thought regarding student’s own and others’ attitudes toward death, dying and bereavement.
4. To demonstrate an understanding of the complexities involved in funeral experiences and death rituals.
5. To challenge assumptions regarding contemporary “Western” funeral and burial practices, through gendered and racialized experiences in North America.

REQUIRED MATERIALS AND TEXTS

Journal articles can be found on the McMaster Library website. Book chapters are on Avenue as .pdf files.

Films will be accessible through Kanopy, Vimeo, YouTube, PBS or the National Film Board of Canada (NFB). Links will be posted on Avenue and are available within this syllabus.

COURSE EVALUATION – OVERVIEW

Each student is responsible for completing all the assigned weekly readings and watching the posted video lectures and films. These will prepare you for the reflection posts and course assignments. PowerPoint slides will be made available with the video lectures each week. Video lectures will be uploaded to YouTube, but will be taken offline after exactly two weeks.

COURSE EVALUATION – DETAILS

Reflections (30%): Using PebblePad+, students will create and maintain a blog throughout the semester to reflect on the course readings. Students will write poignant and concise critical reflections based on the previous week's readings. The reflections can be personal, and involve creative elements including poetry, photography, music, or images found on the internet, but must relate to the readings for that week, and be related to the question posed. Reflections are mostly graded on content, but students are still expected to write coherently and clearly.

- Due Dates: Jan 18th, Jan 25th, Feb 22nd, Mar 8th, Mar 29th, Apr 12th by 11:59PM
- Requirements: Minimum of 175 words to a maximum of 450 words. Must cite the course readings.
- Format: Detailed instructions posted to Avenue.
- First Reflection: First reflection due by Monday January 18th at 11:59pm.

Quizzes (30%): Three online multiple-choice quizzes will be posted on Avenue. The questions will relate to course material (films, lectures, readings) from before the date of the quiz. Students will have 24 hours to initiate each quiz on Avenue, and one hour to complete each quiz once initiated.

- Quiz 1: February 8th, 12pm – February 9th, 12pm.
- Quiz 2: March 15th, 12pm – March 16th, 12pm.
- Quiz 3: April 12th, 12pm – April 13th, 12pm.

Final Take-Home Essay (40%): Dark tourism/Thanatourism is travel to encounter death and has become a primary means of cultural engagement for many of us, though it remains a morally and ethically ambiguous practice. For example, does gazing at death and “foreign” practices create healthy relationships to death, or does it add to the disparity between us and them? Where do we draw the line between visiting the site of a recent tragedy, taking selfies at a Holocaust memorial, or visiting a centuries-old catacomb?

This short-essay assignment will consist of two parts:

- 1- Scavenger Hunt: Choose a dark tourist site anywhere in the world, including North America, and consider the following: What is the history of this site? What is culturally / religiously / politically significant about this site? Are there contentious actions occurring there? You will find your site and provide details using a combination of online and academic sources.
 - 2- Critical Analysis: Using course readings, argue for and against the practice of dark tourism as a tourist. How might visitors to your chosen site and locals benefit from the experience, or not? In your final 1-2 paragraphs, offer your own opinions and reflections on the practice of dark tourism.
- Due Date: Due during exam period. TBD.
 - Format: Detailed instructions will be posted to Avenue.

LATE ASSIGNMENTS

Students should contact their TA or professor if they plan on handing in an assignment late.
Students will lose 1 point a day for every day the final take-home essay is late.

AVENUE TO LEARN

In this course we will be using Avenue to Learn. Students should be aware that, when they access the electronic components of this course, private information such as first and last names, user names for the McMaster e-mail accounts, and program affiliation may become apparent to all other students in the same course. The available information is dependent on the technology used. Continuation in this course will be deemed consent to this disclosure. If you have any questions or concerns about such disclosure please discuss this with the course instructor.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

You are expected to exhibit honesty and use ethical behaviour in all aspects of the learning process. Academic credentials you earn are rooted in principles of honesty and academic integrity. It is your responsibility to understand what constitutes academic dishonesty.

Academic dishonesty is to knowingly act or fail to act in a way that results or could result in unearned academic credit or advantage. This behaviour can result in serious consequences, e.g. the grade of zero on an assignment, loss of credit with a notation on the transcript (notation reads: "Grade of F assigned for academic dishonesty"), and/or suspension or expulsion from the university. For information on the various types of academic dishonesty please refer to the Academic Integrity Policy, located at <https://secretariat.mcmaster.ca/university-policies-procedures-guidelines/>

The following illustrates only three forms of academic dishonesty:

- plagiarism, e.g. the submission of work that is not one's own or for which other credit has been obtained.
- improper collaboration in group work.
- copying or using unauthorized aids in tests and examinations.

AUTHENTICITY / PLAGIARISM DETECTION

Some courses may use a web-based service (Turnitin.com) to reveal authenticity and ownership of student submitted work. For courses using such software, students will be expected to submit their work electronically either directly to Turnitin.com or via an online learning platform (e.g. A2L, etc.) using plagiarism detection (a service supported by Turnitin.com) so it can be checked for academic dishonesty.

Students who do not wish their work to be submitted through the plagiarism detection software must inform the Instructor before the assignment is due. No penalty will be assigned to a student who does not submit work to the plagiarism detection software. All submitted work is subject to normal verification that standards of academic integrity have been upheld (e.g., on-line search, other software, etc.). For more details about McMaster's use of Turnitin.com please go to www.mcmaster.ca/academicintegrity.

COURSES WITH AN ON-LINE ELEMENT

Some courses may use on-line elements (e.g. e-mail, Avenue to Learn (A2L), LearnLink, web pages, capa, Moodle, ThinkingCap, etc.). Students should be aware that, when they access the electronic components of a course using these elements, private information such as first and last names, user names for the McMaster e-mail accounts, and program affiliation may become apparent to all other students in the same course. The available information is dependent on the technology used. Continuation in a course that uses on-line elements will be deemed consent to this disclosure. If you have any questions or concerns about such disclosure please discuss this with the course instructor.

ONLINE PROCTORING

Some courses may use online proctoring software for tests and exams. This software may require students to turn on their video camera, present identification, monitor and record their computer activities, and/or lock/restrict their browser or other applications/software during tests or exams. This software may be required to be installed before the test/exam begins.

CONDUCT EXPECTATIONS

As a McMaster student, you have the right to experience, and the responsibility to demonstrate, respectful and dignified interactions within all of our living, learning and working communities. These expectations are described in the Code of Student Rights & Responsibilities (the "Code"). All students share the responsibility of maintaining a positive environment for the academic and personal growth of all McMaster community members, whether in person or online.

It is essential that students be mindful of their interactions online, as the Code remains in effect in virtual learning environments. The Code applies to any interactions that adversely affect, disrupt, or interfere with reasonable participation in University activities. Student disruptions or behaviours that interfere with university functions on online platforms (e.g. use of Avenue 2 Learn, WebEx or Zoom for delivery), will be taken very seriously and will be investigated. Outcomes may include restriction or removal of the involved students' access to these platforms.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION OF STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Students with disabilities who require academic accommodation must contact Student Accessibility Services (SAS) at 905-525-9140 ext. 28652 or sas@mcmaster.ca to make arrangements with a Program Coordinator. For further information, consult McMaster University's Academic Accommodation of Students with Disabilities policy.

REQUESTS FOR RELIEF FOR MISSED ACADEMIC TERM WORK

McMaster Student Absence Form \(MSAF\): In the event of an absence for medical or other reasons, students should review and follow the Academic Regulation in the Undergraduate Calendar "Requests for Relief for Missed Academic Term Work".

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION FOR RELIGIOUS, INDIGENOUS OR SPIRITUAL OBSERVANCES (RISO)

Students requiring academic accommodation based on religious, indigenous or spiritual observances should follow the procedures set out in the RISO policy. Students should submit their request to their Faculty Office normally within 10 working days of the beginning of term in which they anticipate a need for accommodation or to the Registrar's Office prior to their examinations. Students should also contact their instructors as soon as possible to make alternative arrangements for classes, assignments, and tests.

COPYRIGHT AND RECORDING

Students are advised that lectures, demonstrations, performances, and any other course material provided by an instructor include copyright protected works. The Copyright Act and copyright law protect every original literary, dramatic, musical and artistic work, including lectures by University instructors

The recording of lectures, tutorials, or other methods of instruction may occur during a course. Recording may be done by either the instructor for the purpose of authorized distribution, or by a student for the purpose of personal study. Students should be aware that their voice and/or image may be recorded by others during the class. Please speak with the instructor if this is a concern for you.

EXTREME CIRCUMSTANCES

The University reserves the right to change the dates and deadlines for any or all courses in extreme circumstances (e.g., severe weather, labour disruptions, etc.). Changes will be communicated through regular McMaster communication channels, such as McMaster Daily News, A2L and/or McMaster email.
